

DEGREE OUTCOMES

Students earning an associate degree will complete coursework within their program of choice that meets learning outcomes in the following areas:

- Consider other contexts and viewpoints
- Communicate with clarity and accuracy
- Apply solutions and ideas

Specifically, students explore the following:

Consider other contexts and viewpoints

- What are my ethical and cultural starting points?
- What are the health and safety implications?
- What are the ethical implications?
- What are the cultural, business, social, or historical implications?

Communicate with clarity and accuracy

- Can I demonstrate discipline-specific oral communication?
- Can I demonstrate discipline-specific written communication?
- Can I use foundational communication skills like information literacy and methods of a persuasive argument?
- Can I use industry-specific technologies to communicate?

Apply solutions and ideas

- Can I solve problems?
- Can I use interconnected theories, ideas, or concepts to create or explore ideas?
- Can I interact, engage, or work with others to enhance my learning or career opportunities?